Public meeting slated next week

The town of Drayton Valley will hold its annual public meeting Tuesday, March 15.

The meeting, to be held in the Provincial Building, is held each year in accordance with the Municipal Act. Under the Act such a meeting must be held once each year.

The meeting will consist of two and possibly three segments. It will begin with answers to questions previously submitted at the town office. "They will go over the answers at the beginning of the meeting," explained town Manager Manny Deol.

Following that the town affairs will be reported on. "This includes such things as the auditor's report, projects completed, planned and under way and other information," Deol said.

Mayor Bob Mayhew hoped there would be enough time after the first two parts to open the meeting to questions from the floor. "We naturally give them that courtesy — time permitting," he said.

"It's dependent on how many questions come in by mail; they have first priority."

The meeting will be chaired by a person who is not a member of either town council or the administration, added Mayhew.

Klondike Days popular with kids

The equivalent of almost the entire population of Wildwood turned out Friday night as the 20th annual Klondike Days began with the children's night.

Over 450 people attended the event which provided games of chance and skill for the youngsters and sourdough events for their parents.

Shooting galeries, a bean bag throw, a fishing pond and a dime toss were among the Elks Club-run event.

"We aren't concerned with making any money," said Elk Nick Myschuk, "It's just a night out for the kids."

The second night drew over 200 adults to a dinner and dance.

Myschuk explained the event has changed over the years and preceded the Edmonton celebration. The theme was used the year before by the town of Donalda and then Wildwood started it in March of 1964 — just prior to Edmonton's inauguration in July of the same year.

At one time there was a contest for queen of the event and about 10 years ago the festivities were split over two evenings with one for the children and one for the adults.

"We've always had log-sawing and nail-driving and those kinds of things," he said.

Originally the competitions were held outside but they proved to be too much for the club workers to handle. The club has about 60 members with 25 to 30 of those being active.

Myschuk pointed out a number of posters used as part of the decorations and explained they were done by Alex McGregor, a teacher who was instrumental in starting the event. "He was keen and wanted to see something started along this line."

Fire dispute continues

By Stuart Adams

Thursday's meeting of Drayton Valley town council was highlighted by council standing firm on its position regarding the withdrawal of fire protection to the County of Parkland. Instructions were made to town administration to advertise the town's intentions regarding county fire protection and that it would withdraw fire protection from the County of Parkland as of April 30, 1983 and respond only to fires within the town boundaries.

The move arose from the county's refusal to increase its share of funding for the department — an agreement signed by the two bodies Nov. 5, 1981 states the agreement must be reviewed each year.

At its meeting Drayton Valley town council referred to this clause in its request for more funding for the fire department. In Thursday's meeting it was brought up that the town had approached the county four times for renegotiation since the 1981 signing of the agreement with no satisfactory response.

Referring to another clause in the agreement which states "this Agreement may be terminated at any time by either party forthwith upon default of any of the terms thereof, or if no default occurs, upon six (6) months notice in writing to the other party" town council felt the agreement was no longer in effect.

In a letter to the town dated Jan. 24, 1983 the county indicated the agreement is still considered to be in effect and that further negotiations are unwarranted because county officials feel the agreement provides a "fair and equitable arrangement."

At the centre of the issue is the budget for the department which is administered by the town. The 1982 operating budget called for $108,000 and the town requested the county pay $32,731 or 30 per cent.

The county's share under the 1981 agreement would be $6,333 or 6 per cent. This total is disputed by the county which claims over $10,000 in additional monies have been paid directly to the fire department in honorariums.

The town was unable to confirm this figure, saying the sum went directly to the fire department

Addressing problems plague post office

Over 20 per cent of the letters being sorted in Drayton Valley do not have a complete mailing address.

Mail without a complete address is now being returned to the sender, said Postmaster Le-Roy Robinson.

"It is the responsibility of the sender of any item of mail to see that it has a complete mailing address before it is mailed," Robinson added.

The post office is allowed 500 man hours of time to sort the approximately 300,000 pieces of mail it receives a month. "We are using many more hours per week than other communities similar to ours," he explained.

The reason they were previously delivered was because a postal clerk stopped sorting and looked up the box number, Robinson added. Quite often after a lengthy search through ever-changing lists and directories the letter would have to be either sorted again or marked unknown and returned to the sender, he said.

"In Drayton Valley a complete address must contain either a box number, a suburban service street address or general delivery along with the postal code.

"I am allotted no time to sort or process mail that requires extra handling or time to look up box numbers or street addresses," Robinson said.

To solve the problem, Robinson says he has to borrow some hours from the wicket section. This "explains why you quite often see only one postal clerk waiting on a large line-up of about 10 to 15 people."

For every letter that requires an address search, 25 to 30 letters that have complete addresses could be sorted.

Although post office regulations are clear in telling Robinson he must not use up time in looking up box numbers and street addresses, he explains he does make exceptions in the area of old age pensions, family allowances, unemployment insurance and other cheques which are urgently required by the addressee.

Robinson recommends not to use the telephone book to address mail. "Most often it gives a street address that is not a mailing address," he added.

Robinson also recommended that businesses in Drayton Valley which have a list of customers they regularly mail to, send their list to him and he will see that the complete mailing addresses that are required are added on to the list.

Fire department

and on to the firefighters. However, it was pointed out by the administration that in its 1982 budget the town paid $20,000 in honorariums to the fire department and the firefighters.

At present the county has a fire truck stationed in the Drayton Valley fire hall, the maintenance of which is covered in its cost-sharing funds. The town and the county units are sometimes used as backups if the respective situations warrant.

A meeting the previous week between the mayor of Drayton Valley, Bob Mayhew, and county Reeve Les Miller served to reopen negotiations between the two sides.

Mayhew informed council another meeting was set for March 11 in Drayton Valley. He said committees from the respective bodies would be present along with himself and the reeve.

Miller was optimistic the situation could be resolved and that both councils want to move to that end. However, he added he was disappointed the town was going ahead with the advertising of the withdrawal of services. "We're going to the meeting with the sincere purpose of resolving the situation," he said.

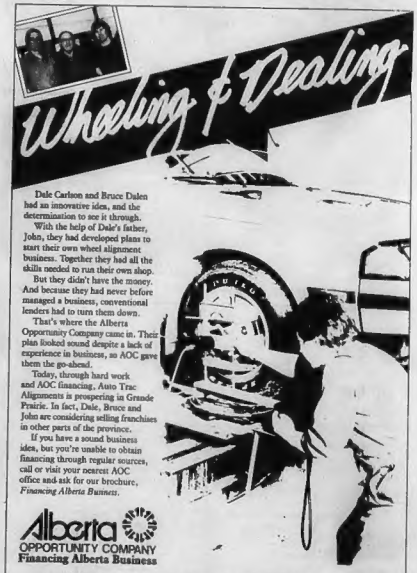
He indicated the county's approach will be more of an informal review session. "I don't think we've made any plans," he explained. "We're just prepared to sit down and review the whole problem."

When asked about the county's portion of the budget he responded "There are a lot of other cost-sharing areas other than the fire department.

"We're involved with the town in a number of areas and I think they all need reviewing."

A budding architect

Every 11-year-old boy needs a snow fort and Paul Jean built his on the corner of 52nd Ave. and 49 St. He said it was an afternoon's work but he had a few friends helping for a while. He's a student at Elementary B School.



Dale Carlson and Bruce Dalen had an innovative idea, and the determination to see it through.

With the help of Dale's father, John, they had developed plans to start their own wheel alignment business. Together they had all the skills needed to run their own shop.

But they didn't have the money. And because they had never before managed a business, conventional lenders had to turn them down.

That's where the Alberta Opportunity Company came in. Their plan looked sound despite a lack of experience in business, so AOC gave them the go-ahead.

Today, through hard work and AOC financing, Auto Trac Alignments is prospering in Grande Prairie. In fact, Dale, Bruce and John are considering selling franchises in other parts of the province.

If you have a sound business idea, but you're unable to obtain financing through regular sources, call or visit your nearest AOC office and ask for our brochure. Financing Alberta Business.

Paid higher than other communities

Instructors get paycheque cut

Recreation instructors were told during a meeting Thursday by the town recreation department their pay cheques were being reduced.

"After a review of similar communities and similar circumstances throughout the area we had determined that we were paying local instructors on a higher scale. So we have determined in order to offer programs with the same user fee structure we would have to lower instructor pay," said Dennis Woolsey, recreation director.

The majority of the instructors attending the meeting agreed they were being paid higher than instructors in other communities, he said.

Explaining the reasoning behind the move, Woolsey said it was getting to the point that there would have to be 17 to 18 people in a course to be able to offer it.

"The recreation department is of the opinion that we should be offering programs to all instead of just the people who can afford them," he said.

Linda Watson, an aerobics instructor, admitted Woolsey has been the first recreation director to conduct a meeting with the instructors. She said Woolsey explained to them that he was trying to accommodate both the instructors and the community with the pay reduction.

Instead of $20 an hour, instructors will receive $15 per hour of instruction time, as long as there are 20 or more people in the class. The pay schedule would be prorated on a percentage basis for any number below that, she said.

Watson said candidly that she was not satisfied, but in order to still give the service to the community she would put up with the decrease until it would increase again.

When considering the overhead involved such as babysitters, tapes, travel and planning lessons, instructors do not make anything, she said. "I am not doing this to make any money," she added.

Icy streets bend fenders

This fender bender was just the final result of a five-car pile-up on Industrial Road and 50th Ave. Heavy snow and icy conditions were blamed for the accidents.

Last week's snowfall has caused difficulties for a number of Drayton Valley residents and curtailed snow removal efforts were a bid to save money.

Most of the snow fell March 5 and cleaning was limited to major intersections and school bus routes until Wednesday afternoon.

Town workers began moving the snow off the main arteries and windrowing it and continued through Thursday and Friday. Downtown main streets were cleared and the snow removed while it was graded to the edge of the streets is secondary areas.

"We have one chance of saving the taxpayer some money and we take it," explained Mayor Bob Mayhew.

Town Manager Manny Deol said the cost of a cleaning and clearing operation would run between $8,000 and $10,000. "We don't think moving the snow is advantageous because it's going to melt in a couple of weeks," said Councillor Alex Salfi.

Jacklighting nets $500 fine

James Byma of Spruce Grove pleaded guilty in provincial court Thursday to a charge of hunting big game with a night light and hunting wildlife half an hour after sunset and half an hour before sunrise. He was fined $500 on each account.

Byma was apprehended by a Fish and Wildlife night hunting patrol near Rocky Rapids Nov. 27, 1982.

Your Credit Union Annual Meeting

...for Your Kind of Credit Union

You and your family have individual needs. When it comes to financial services, your credit union annual meeting is proof that at least one financial institution responds to those needs.

It's a family affair—bringing together the members—the largest shareholder and the smallest, the young and the elderly, the new member with the veteran, to share in deciding the future path of the credit union.

Credit unions are positively unique—and uniquely positive. Count yourself in at your Credit union annual meeting . . . for your kind of credit union.

Opinions

Meeting deserves attendance

The town of Drayton Valley holds its annual public meeting next week and although residents should exercise their right to attend they should also be aware of the nature of the meeting.

Of primary concern is the format under which the administration and council will respond to questions from the public.

It makes sense for them to request written questions in advance -- the opportunity to provide pertinent facts and figures to support their answers is something they deserve.

Advance questions also allows them to establish some form of order in which the meeting may be presented. Again, this is only fair.

This will be an interesting meeting because it is the final one, barring a petition calling for another public meeting, prior to the fall civic election.

Everyone has had ample time to observe the present town council and the way it has managed their community. Now is the time for residents to voice their concerns.

Town council is elected by the people and the job of its members is to serve the people. This is the people's chance to question its servants on how they are running the town.

The meeting will carry on for a limited length of time. There may not be an open question and answer period at the end of the meeting.

It will be in everyone's interest to attend and the best results will come about if they are aware of how the meeting will be conducted.

Editor's Notes

Someone out there is looking to stir things up a bit. The reference is to 'Ace the Raven' whose letter to the editor appears later in these pages.

I should have known something like that would happen. And the writer chose a weak spot: letters to the editor are more or less a sacred thing.

As a journalist you have to remember the importance of the letters to the editor section. When you write every week you tend to take getting your opinion in print for granted.

So you have these safety valves such as letters to the editor.

The only thing about 'Ace the Raven' is I don't know who he, she or they is or are. To be honest I think whoever is up to it has a viewpoint which may not be considered normal.

But then who really wants to read 'normal' things all the time? Maybe we need something to stir us up a bit every now and then. So, I'll invite Ace back to the wide open white spaces.

Streets should have been cleared

Whether we own property or not we are all affected by taxes and last week's snowfall should have been cleared off the streets by our tax dollars.

Property owners feel the tax bite every year, but renters should be aware of it as well. Their landlords pass part of the taxes along as an expense and retailers have to consider it as part of their overhead.

So, with the money spent on taxes every year -- approximately $2.9 million in 1982 -- we should not have to put up with the discomfort and even the danger of uncleared streets.

Town council and the administration deserve credit for attempting to save the townspeople money. But their choice of methods was inappropriate.

There were no serious accidents or injuries resulting from the uncleared streets, but with the amount of traffic in a community of this size there easily could have been.

We, and they, are fortunate nothing like that happened, but they took a risk with a relatively small return.

Your Comment What do you think of the town's decision to save money by removing only some the the recent snowfall?

Betty Sanderson
Drayton Valley
It's disgusting. There have been too many accidents and they haven't cleaned the roads properly.

George Ringer
Drayton Valley
I don't think it's good at all and I don't think it's very safe for the people—pedestrians or car owners.

Jason Mueller
Easyford
Yucky.

Andre Boisvert
Drayton Valley
I think it stinks, especially with the kind of taxes I pay and considering the easy winter we've had.

George McGovern
Drayton Valley
I think it should be cleaned up. There are a lot of people getting stuck and there could be accidents. And who says it could be gone in three weeks?

Participate in your town meeting

Dear Editor:

There will be a public meeting on March 15 at 7:30 p.m. in the Provincial Building. This is a good chance for Drayton Valley taxpayers and all town residents to question and discuss with our mayor and town council any matter regarding the town.

Do you wonder how your tax dollars are spent? Do you want an indoor pool, or do you have questions concerning a minimum security prison in Drayton Valley? Here is the opportunity for us to have some input into the future of our town. If we do not participate, and if we do not like the way the town is run, we leave nobody to blame but ourselves.

Sincerely,
Marti McKinley

Red Cross canvassers coming

Canvassers will be pounding the streets and knocking on doors in search of donations in March during Red Cross month.

Under the leadership of five team captains, 100 volunteers in Drayton Valley and the surrounding area will be collecting the donations to support the work of the Red Cross, said Peggy Tyler. Each volunteer covers only one side of one block, she added.

One hundred volunteers may seem like a huge number of canvassers for the Drayton Valley area. The reason why they are given only about 25 houses is so that the collecting process does not become tedious, Tyler said. When the volunteer knows the neighborhood and the people in it the amount of time that he or she needs to spend tracking people down is minimized.

In 1982 a total of $5,741 was donated, Tyler said. The Drayton Valley business district was exceptionally generous, she noted. She speculated on the corporate generosity by saying that many of the firms are involved in transportation and recognize the need for blood services the Red Cross offers.

Fur trader makes rounds

When people think of fur traders they think of the Hudson's Bay Company and rustic men bartering with the Indians for quantities of diluted liquor.

The fur trade has a long, rich history in Canada. Furs in the 1600s were a sought after commodity for the European market. According to readings in Canadian History "the fur trade was a molding force in the economic and social development of Canada."

The trading of furs lives on through gentlemen like Al Mortensen. Mortensen, like the Hudson Bay Company, is a middleman. He collects furs from registered trappers, licenced hunters and farmers, then wholesales them to manufacturers.

To collect the furs, Mortensen travels thousands of miles a year to small towns and villages such as Alsike. At the general store he waits in his small truck for individuals like Gordon Pacholka, from Breton.

Pacholka met with Mortensen wanting to sell some beaver pelts he had trapped in the fall. The pelts, because of falling demand, age and quality, were worth only three dollars each, according to Mortensen. Freshly skinned beaver pelts, he explained, were worth about $25 depending on size and quality.

Mortensen commented on the number of poorly handled pelts. "A coyote can be worth half of its value because it was not fleshed out."

Mortensen will purchase just about any pelt as long as it is of good quality and not obtained illegally. At a stop before Alsike he purchased squirrels for $1.25 each. "Most squirrels go to England to be made into coats," he said.

Mortensen throws a coyote pelt into the back of his heavily loaded truck.

The future of

IS IN OUR HANDS

The family farm is Canada's greatest asset. We, who depend on its valuable products, must ensure its stability and prosperity.

Every Canadian should understand the farmer's problems and work with the agriculture industry to find solutions.

Scientific research and the development of farm chemicals have contributed to an amazing increase in production in recent years. It is imperative that we also ensure that the price structure is such that the family farm continues to be an attractive occupation for Canadians.

Lodgepole School considered for closure

The Board of Education of the County of Parkland is giving active consideration to the closing of Lodgepole School.

The motion to serve notice of intent to close Lodgepole School, effective after April 30, was made during the regular Board of Education meeting Feb. 15.

The board is considering such action because of the limited number of students projected to attend the school in the near future, said Dr. Leroy Sloan, assistant superintendent of schools for area one (acting).

At present the Lodgepole School has eight students from Grades 1 to 4, said Audrey Fagervold, principal.

According to the board's policy on school closures, a school will be considered for a comprehensive closing study if "the student occupancy rate of the school has fallen substantially under capacity and is projected to remain so," Sloan said.

The critical, minimal enrolment for any school in the county is 50 per cent of capacity. The capacity of Lodgepole is 150, added Sloan.

Anticipated enrolment for the 1983 term is 12 students, if Grade 5 remains and only 10 if Grades 1 through 4 are offered.

"As put in our policy on school closures a notice of motion must be passed. This, however, does not mean the board has made the decision to close the school," noted Sloan.

A number of steps must be taken before the school can be closed. In the policy of school closures, it states "a public meeting will be convened by the board in the area for the purpose of discussing the proposed resolution, its implications for students and for the system, possible implementation, and possible alternatives." Parents of children in Lodgepole School will be notified at least two weeks in advance of the meeting, said Sloan.

The community has a meeting coming up in the future to discuss possible uses of the school, said Fagervold. She hopes reasonable alternatives for utilizing the space could be arranged so that the school would not have to be closed.

Concerned electors will be allowed an opportunity to prepare a response to the possible closure of the school, and to come up with alternatives. "If there are some suggestions, now is the time for the county to listen," he said.

Sloan noted four possible solutions: The board could keep the school open, the school could be closed subject to ministerial approval, part or all of the school could be leased to government agencies or registered societies or school building board approval could be obtained to use the school for other instructional or noninstructional classes.

Sloan made special mention that ministerial approval must be given before the school could be closed.

Enduro race set for Buck Lake

An estimated 50 snowmobilers will take to the trail as the Buck Lake Snowmobile Club holds its 5th annual enduro race this weekend.

"It's one of the most popular lake races in Alberta," says Bob Micku, president of the club.

A professional meet with an 85 per cent pay back, he says there will be eight classes of entries competing over distances up to 130 km (80 mi.). The race will be staged from the south end of the lake and he explained how it will be an ungroomed course of between eight and 10 km.

He adds there will also be classes for ladies and two-up races for kids.

Originally the race was held over a 40 km course but was reduced in length to make it fairer to out-of-town competitors who were unable to practise on it regularly and become familiar with it.

Micku also cites spectator vantage points as a reason. With the shorter course, almost the whole race can be viewed from the staging area.

In the past the event was sponsored by the Buck Lake Fish and Game Association but the snowmobile club was formed and with many members belonging to both groups the snowmobile club took it over.

This is the first year for the club and Micku says the lack of snow has hampered them but they hope to have a poker rally before the season is out.

Gymnasists organize

The Drayton Valley Gymnastics Club held its annual meeting Tuesday in the Rec Plex.

Besides electing new officers, the 24 people attending the meeting were informed the club is now a registered society.

The new president elected was Marie Joyce.

The 13-year-old club was originally run by the town and volunteers until 1980, said Myrna Boecher, past president, then it was run as an individual recreation program by an executive committee.

The club currently instructs only recreation and precompetitive. "We don't compete because of lack of time," she said. The club is currently looking for more coaches and parents to get involved.

A gymnastics display night is planned for March 22.

Vowk rink wins ladies' open

Diane McMahon and Shirley Ciuryask sweep one into the house.

None of the games were easy, according to Cindy Vowk, skip of the winning rink in 'A' event curling action at the Drayton Valley Curling Club's ladies' bonspiel over the weekend.

"We always had to fight for each of our games," she said.

"We never felt we were better than the other girls."

Yet the team came out on top of the 48-rink competition with a 6-0 record. Second Diane McMahon credited her skip with reading the ice well and making good shots.

In their final match against Wanda Johnson's rink from Grande Prairie, Vowk took an early lead and held on to the lead to win 13-5.

They added three points to a 6-2 lead in the fifth end to give themselves some breathing room. "When they missed we were able to take advantage and they did the same," said McMahon, "but we just had more opportunities."

The team was filled out by Lead Shirley Ciuryask and Third Julie Bergen. Bergen and Vowk have curled together for the past two years while Ciuryask is a rookie curler and McMahon came out from Edmonton for the bonspiel.

County moves to reopen negotiations

The County of Parkland at its Thursday meeting moved that a committee be activated to reopen negotiations with the town of Drayton Valley regarding fire protection service outside of the town limits.

Les Miller, reeve, accused the local media of not bothering to research the situation fully.

When discussing the financial dispute he noted that the county paid $10,000 directly to the fire department which was not included in the town's budget for the fire department.

Dan Kowalsky commented on the situation, saying he would like to see a full explanation. One of the two fire engines used by the town actually belongs to the county and fire protection is paid for by the county outside of town, he added, during the short discussion.

Ron Pollack questioned if it had been determined that the town could discontinue the service. "I'm satisfied that they have to give us six months notice by registered mail," answered Miller.

We can get by without them and they can get by without us, Miller said.

The county moved, when discussing a request from the National Farmers' Union for support of the county for the retension of the Crow rate, not to take a position due to the limited amount of information they had on the subject.

Discussing new business, Kowalsky noted the Attorney-General's office wanted to lease space in the Drayton Valley county building to conduct driver's examinations.

Raven writes letter to editor

(Editor's note: Through a series of events which possibly should be explained, but won't be, we have received this somewhat unique missive from an individual named 'Ace' who claims to be a raven — the one living on the water tower. In keeping with our policy to offer our readers their say we reprint it in its entirety.)

Dear Editor:

Put this letter in or things will go badly for you.

Thanks

Okaydokey, Drayton Valley, old Ace has decided to come down off his perch and set a few things straight. He sees a lot of things going on from topside and some of them have become irksome to him.

It's time somebody called the shots like they are.

Top of the heap — who's in charge of the snow removal? It's a mess down there! How could those town councillors let things get that way?

Old Ace hears all that white stuff is supposed to disappear one of these days. He also hears it's supposed to go away soon. You betcha, but when?

Old Ace hears it's supposed to go away soon. Why? Because the town councillors said it would.

Ace has it from a good source that they get inside information from a tea cup reader in the city. Apparently they call on her abilities to decide on all the major issues.

Well, Drayton Valley, do you want your town council going to a tea cup reader to figure out what they should do about the weather?

Can't you see them sitting around drinking tea and arguing who's cup is going to get read? Yup, Ace figures that one's probably good for a laugh.

Word about the snow is that she told them to rely on 'the great solar powered snow remover'. Apparently they thought this meant some monster solar powered vacuum cleaner was on its way or something.

Oh well, you're the ones who elected them. Just don't use the expression 'birdbrain' while Ace is around or it'll be worth a peck on the neck.

Just to help keep things in perspective. It strikes Ace that this is an election year. Can't you see all those candidates falling all over themselves next fall telling people how they saved money for the town last year.

Right. Everyone will have forgotten what snow even looks like by that time. Who'll bring up the big snowjob of March come October?

As a matter of fact, that fall election could be a good one. The councillors have about six months to decide whether or not they want to run again. And those who want to take another kick at the cat (Ace doesn't like cats) are going to be making waves or headlines or something.

Keep your eyes peeled, this may not be the last time you see a raven in black and white.

Yours,
Ace

Oldtimer remembers threshing days

Louise Anderson built these hay stacks herself. These are her children in the foreground.

By Donna Haskedal

Forty years ago Louise Anderson married her husband Nils and they have lived on their farm north of Drayton Valley since then. She was an early resident of the area when her parents homesteaded in this country when she was one and a half years old.

She recalls some of her childhood experiences when she had three miles to walk to school. "In the winter our lunch would be frozen, and our foreheads would freeze," she says.

She remembers her coat was a lined rain coat, and because there was so little money at that time she wore it year round with only a sweater for extra warmth during winter.

Louise worked with her father a lot. At age seven she had learned the art of building perfect hay and bundle stacks.

Her father bought a separator, or threshing machine, and did custom threshing. When her brother went to the army Louise went with her father on his threshing circuit. "That was my first experience at driving a tractor," she says.

"It wasn't an easy tractor like they are now either. It was a big old Case."

Laughing as she remembers, Louise says her dad liked having her along because being small she could crawl in and pull the straw out when the machine got plugged. "Not that I was too fond of that," she says. "I like working outside though."

After the Andersons were married they built on the farm they presently reside on, along Highway 22 south of Highway 16.

Highway 22 at that time was a fairly good wagon trail. When the seismic trucks started coming through a new road was begun (about 1955-56).

The discovery of oil also seemed to bring the rains, and the road became almost impassable for everything and anything.

Before Highway 22 was built they had to move their house. "The present fenceline went right through the centre of the house," says Louise.

Nils recalls land prices. Forty years ago a farm could be bought for $1,500. The land on the south side of Highway 16, now a part of Entwistle, was priced at $300 for 40 acres. "But you can't look 50 years ahead," he says.

The new road (Highway 22) provided work for Nils for two summers. At that time they were milking cows by hand. "We had to get up at three in the morning to get those blame cows milked," says Louise.

After that she drove her husband to a neighbor's place to catch a ride to work. Then home to wake the children, and get them off to school. "Those summers I was so tired I could sleep standing up," she says.

The Andersons still enjoy a good life on the farm. Their son Lorne, and wife and family have a home in the same yard. They raise goats, and last year canned 85 quarts of goat milk. They also sold 600 pounds of raspberries.

"I thought we were getting fed up on them, but we keep on just the same. Got to have some exercise," remarks Nils.

They have three daughters, one son and seven grandchildren.

On Feb. 26 family and friends joined Nils and Louise Anderson at their home to help celebrate their 40th wedding anniversary.

Found on highway 22 just east of Drayton Valley, this house was pulled over on the side of the road. The house was being moved from Edmonton to Wildwood.

Robert Schumaker puts blocks under the house to raise it six inches higher to get it across the North Saskatchewan bridge near Drayton Valley.

Student prefers math to music

Terry Regenwetter likes to go on field trips.

Plucked at random from the hallway in St. Anthony School, Terry Regenwetter, a nine-year-old Grade 4 student, was more than happy to give up part of his music class to be this week's student at random.

Born and raised in Drayton Valley, his only comment about school is it's pretty good.

One of his favorite subjects is math. Last year he got an award in what is one of his best subjects. The award, he added, was a little piece of paper saying he was one of the best math students in his class.

"I like field trips," he added.

Last Friday his class went to the Multicultural Centre in Stony Plain. At the Centre, Terry says he and his classmates learned three pioneer crafts. "My group made a toy. It was a piece of wood with a string attached. On the string was tied a bead. The object was to get the bead through the hole in the wood."

Two other crafts they learned about were making candles and weaving, he said.

His favorite part of the field trip was a stop at McDonalds in Spruce Grove, he admitted. "I like the food at McDonalds. I wish there was one in Drayton Valley."

At one time Terry thought he would like to be a cartoon artist, but now he is not too sure what the future has in store for him.

He says he's anxious for the summer to come so he can get his motocross bicycle out and start tearing up the trails. "We live about a mile out of town," he explained.

Terry's only concern about having two older sisters is they sometimes make him late for school.

Microwave cooking coming in March

The recent warm weather put a crimp into the ladies' bonspiel held Feb. 21 to 27, with the plant not able to keep up. Most of the games proved to be a test of strength.

Emerging victorious in the grand challenge game was the Les Morton rink of Drayton Valley over the Norma Dohlman rink of Winfield.

The Bernice Johnson rink captured the second event over the Gladys Meinzinger rink of Warburg.

The third event was played off by Joan Wynnyk of Breton and a local rink, Kathy Hansen, with Wynnyk winning the event.

Barb and Dean Seely became parents Feb. 18 with the birth of a daughter, Dana Michelle at the Drayton Valley Hospital. She weighed seven pounds, one ounce. Grandparents are Ev and Glen Howatt and Doyle and Lorraine Seely.

Carol and Dave Edwards also recently became parents.

Jean Malin spent two weeks in Kelowna taking care of her granddchildren while Rita and Alan Ankerstein were on a trip to Las Vegas.

Ted and Bev Maclean, Alan and Connie Maclean and J.L. and Ivy Seely returned Sunday from a holiday in the Barbados.

The Legion Hall was the setting with decorations in red and white for the bridal shower of Sherry Simon Feb. 19.

Cindy Resler, bridesmaid, assisted with the opening of the gifts while Sandra Bohning, matron of honor, recorded.

Sherry and Reno Martin are making their home in Drayton Valley.

The Grad '83 class recently held a successful pancake supper. Tamie Sargeant and Shirley Shanks each won a $20 draw. They also held a bake sale during the ladies' bonspiel. Denice Johnson won the $20 draw and Hannah Foster won the cake raffle.

Jordon Ashley Tugwell arrived Feb. 11 in the Rocky Hospital weighing seven pounds, 12 ounces. His parents are Dwayne and Terry Tugwell and grandparents from Alder Flats are Steve and Doris Tugwell.

Sympathy goes to Pat and Jan Haiste and family on the recent death of his mother.

Delfa and Mike Scrybalo had their grandchildren staying with them for a few days during the middle of February while Vince and Louies were in Edmonton. Agnes Schauerte went back with them to Fort McMurray for a visit.

Seven tables were in play at the last senior citizen card party with Eleanor Danyluk taking high for ladies. Alex Danyluk was high for men and Steve Tugwell low.

In last week's Alder Flats news, the curling report should have been Donnie Macborsky, not Dennis, who curled in the men's bonspiel at Rocky Mountain House recently. He won the first event.

Mark Poudrier and Grampa Seely are hospital patients.

A microwave cooking class will be held March 17 in the Alder Flats Community Hall from 1 to 4 p.m. District Home Economist Trina Rentmeister will be the instructor. To register call Joyce Hayduk at 388-3886.

Councillors to subsist on present allowance

Parkland County councillors will not receive an increase in subsistence allowances in 1983, it was agreed last week.

Following a similar move by school board trustees recently, councillors voted last week to keep mileage, meal and subsistence rates at the 1982 level.

Mileage is paid at 40 cents per mile (25 cents per kilometre). School board meal rates are $5 for breakfast, $7 for lunch and $11 for dinner. School board subsistence rates are $105 per day on out-of-county trips, and $126.50 per day (plus $98.90 honorarium) for conventions and meetings outside the county.

Fire department holds bonspiel

The Tomahawk Fire Department held its annual curling bonspiel Feb. 25 to 27.

The first event winning team was Harold Wickware, Rudolph Reich and Billy Malka. Winners of the second event were Frank Gilbert, Herb Zander and Walter Case, Jr.

Third event winners were Adolf Strocher, Ruck Dumont and Reg Hilts. Sydney Parfeniuk's team won the booby prize.

United Church services will be held March 27 in the club room at 7 p.m.

March is Red Cross month. Canvassing in town will be done March 15 and 16 or donations may be left with Carol Trimble or Frances Gilbert.

The next blood pressure clinic will be held March 23 in the Club room from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

Clare and Dora Millenbacher returned recently from a two-week trip by air to California. They visited with long-time friends who were celebrating their 40th wedding anniversary. These friends were here last year in honor of Clare and Dora's 40th wedding anniversary.

The next bingo will be held March 25.

Sympathy goes to Joyce Goers on the death of her mother, and to Bee Schadeck, whose 14-year-old niece died recently.

Landfill site to be replaced

A modern replacement for an old landfill site near Buck Creek is the aim of a search launched Friday by the county.

County Councillors Gene Begg and Bruce Cropley were appointed Friday to track down a suitable site for a new waste transfer station.

The station will become one of several garbage drop-off points for the Drayton Valley Regional Sanitary Landfill.

The existing dump in the area, situated near the hamlet of Buck Creek, is nearing capacity and will soon need closing.

Proceeds of raffle aid playschool

By Evelyn Howatt

A St. Patrick's Day supper and dance will be held March 19 at the Whitby Community Hall. The music for the evening will be supplied by Haywire. The supper is from 7 to 8:30 p.m. and the dance begins at 9 p.m. For advance tickets call 542-2080, 542-2229 or 542-4942.

The Valentine's supper and dance held Feb. 12 was well attended. There was a raffle for a food hamper with the proceeds to aid the Tomahawk Playschool and this was won by Betty Chodak of Rocky Rapids.

The monthly bingo will be held Thursday, March 10 at 8 p.m.

The community ladies held a baby shower for Leslie Groe at the home of Jalna Ryrie March 3. The ladies presented Leslie with a baby stroller.

Elsie Giles of Wabamun has been teaching the making of mukluks and the course is now completed. The response to this course was so great that another course will hopefully be held in the near future.

Jalna Ryrie curled in the ladies' bonspiel at Lodgepole with teammates Phyllis Kupsch, Peggy Metcalf and Brigid Mulgrew and the team won second in the third event.

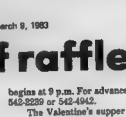
Sherry Dusterhoft curled in the Breton ladies' bonspiel with Marg Neil and Les and Pat Morton.

The Alder Flats ladies' bonspiel was attended by Ev Howatt, Marg Neil, Les and Pat Morton and the ladies won the grand challenge.

Sherry Dusterhoft also curled at the Alder Flats ladies' bonspiel with Kathy Hansen and Collette and Esther Hammond.

Carol and Joe Kelly, Edel and Harley Vig and Grace and Ben Petrie enjoyed a trip to Reno, Nevada, on an extended weekend in February.

Nutrition Week March 7 to 12



The Homemaker

by Janice McGregor
542-5368

March is national Nutrition Month. In Alberta, March 7 to 12 has been designated as Nutrition Week.

This week, co-ordinated by the Alberta Registered Dietitians' Association, has been set up to inform persons of the benefits of good nutrition.

The food groups are milk and milk products; meat, fish, poultry and alternates; fruits and vegetables; and breads and cereals. Canada's Food Guide recommends the number and size of servings from each group for each member of the family.

With careful food selection, extra vitamin and mineral supplements should not be required, unless prescribed by a doctor.

Saving money on food bills, while serving nutritious meals, starts at home. Before leaving to go shopping, get organized. Plan menus for the week, including all meals eaten at home. Use Canada's Food Guide to ensure all food groups are included on the menu.

Make a list of all foods required for the menus. Check the cupboards and refrigerator and add any required foods to the list.

Check newspaper ads for grocery store weekly specials. Compare prices between stores and shop at the store that has the best prices for the foods on your list. Travelling from store to store may end up costing more in gas than is saved on food.

Comprehensive exams no solution to problem

Provincial Education minister David King is listening to a minority in calling for compulsory comprehensive exams, a local teacher said recently.

Trevor Meldon, candidate for vice-presidency in upcoming Alberta Teachers' Association (ATA) elections, said the exams are strictly a reactionary move by the minister.

"My opinion is King is listening to a minority and is proposing an overly simplistic solution to what is an overblown problem."

The "back to the basics" movement is really a decided step backwards, not ahead, Meldon claimed, and minister King appears to be taking the first step in setting up compulsory comprehensive exams.

Today's system is far too complex to come up with simple answers which simply distort it, he said.

Those who believe comprehensives are going to be the answer are "fooling themselves," he added.

Meldon continues to preach his anti-King policy in his campaign for one of two ATA vice-president positions.

A huge number of teachers will be making their decisions based on literature sent out, he said, so he has aimed his strongest pitch squarely at the masses, who need to be shocked somewhat into taking a stand.

Meldon said he's more optimistic now than when he first started his campaign several weeks ago.

Reponse at forums has been "relatively good," but there is still no way of telling for sure who will voice their dissatisfaction with the system by voting for him, Meldon explained.

Ballots for the mail-in elections will be sent out March 9, with counting taking place in early April.

Meldon is running against several former or current vice-presidents, all of whom he considers conservatives.

If he wins one of the two available vice-presidences, it will be an upset, he admits.

But an upset both in the ATA elections and in the system in general, is exactly what is needed, he maintains.

Time to start a new venture

By Joanne Benger

The moon is at apogee and in fourth quarter as well as the sign of Capricorn. This is a time to complete projects and tie up loose ends.

Since this is an earthy sign, ambition may surface; however, it often fails because others tend to be too pessimistic to support you. People are terribly disciplined and not too keen to change.

March 11 and 12 we will be in the party lovers' sign of Aquarius as well as in fourth quarter and decreasing.

The innovative, the new and the different are favored so try out a daring new hair-do or wear that new mini dress that somehow seemed too daring until now.

If you want support in a new venture, appeal to people using logic rather than emotion. Scientific projects can be planned now and begun in first quarter.

Dock, dehorn, castrate and tattoo livestock.

Cleaning up at the blowout

This rig was being dismantled to be taken off the hole at the blowout site near Lodgepole. It had been used to "kick" or recover pipe lost down the well hole during the blowout.

A Farm Wife's Almanac

Clear out woodlots and cut down trees. Begin a diet to lose weight.

Since things stick well now, glue down loose tiles, nail down loose shingles, have teeth filled or sew on patches.

March 13 to 15 we will be in my favorite sign—Pisces, the sign that makes escapist activities the most fun. Plan to read science fiction or watch horror movies.

New moon will occur March 14. This is supposed to be a bad time to have livestock born, as they won't be as hardy as those of equal parents born during full moon. I have many kids due now so I pretend it isn't so.

Party and enjoy yourself throughout Pisces. Read poetry or go to a theatre.

If you're in the habit of making home brew, start a new batch now.

Wean children or animals and if your hair is thinning, have it cut now and it just might grow back thicker.

Want to create 'a nation within a nation'

Metis proposal turned thumbs down

By Geoff White and Sheila Pratt

The Alberta government has turned thumbs down on a proposal of the province's Metis organizations to entrench specific native rights in the Canadian constitution.

The rejection by Native Affairs minister Milt Pahl and inter-governmental Affairs minister Jim Horsman of the 21-page submission bodies ill for the first ministers' conference in Ottawa in mid-March.

The conference will deal with native constitutional rights and was set up as a concession to native organizations which felt they were left out of the November, 1981 deal which produced Canada's new constitution.

The Metis proposal was prepared during the last year by a joint committee of the Metis Association of Alberta and the Federation of Metis Settlements, with technical assistance from Horsman's department.

It asked for recognition of aboriginal hunting rights, the constitutional entrenchment of the Metis colonies of northern Alberta, guaranteed representation in the provincial legislature, the right to resource revenues from Metis lands and the official use of native languages in government institutions.

The most controversial element of the submission, however, was the Metis organizations' call for "self-determination."

Even though the Metis say the power to establish and run their own institutions would be exercised only in consultation with senior governments, the Alberta ministers said they could accept no move to create "a nation within a nation."

Pahl and Horsman said Metis concerns could be accommodated within the bounds of provincial laws, and they appeared unprepared to see any elaboration of aboriginal rights in the Canadian constitution.

Any entrenchment of Metis rights in the constitution would result in jurisdiction over the natives being moved from provincial to federal jurisdiction, the ministers said.

All the ministers would agree to was to continue constitutional talks with the Metis and to consult them before any changes in their constitutional status are enacted.

The Metis have asked that any changes in the constitution that affect them should first have their consent.

The native rights question produced a storm of protest in the wake of the 1981 constitutional deal which dropped any reference to natives in the final draft.

Subsequently, Premier Peter Lougheed proposed that a clause be inserted that would recognize natives "existing rights."

Next month's conference is supposed to define and clarify what those rights are, but it is evident that native organizations are angling beyond that in an effort to get a new deal for natives constitutionally imposed

OORP donates to science fair

By Lois Dyck

The February meeting of the Breton Order of the Royal Purple (OORP) was held Feb. 21 with 14 members in attendance.

A cash donation of $75 is to be sent to the Breton Elementary School toward the purchase of prizes to be given at the Science Fair, to be held Saturday, March 12.

The district meeting will be held in Drayton Valley Saturday, April 9. The Breton lodge has been asked to perform the Fanay Drill and the Elks Drill.

A nomination committee consisting of Lucille Jackson, Margaret Smith and Gunhild Ladouceur are to contact Past Honored Royal Ladies to find a nominee for district deputy.

Breton News

The Breton Elks and OORP will hold a joint installation ceremony May 7.

The ladies were requested to cater to a wedding June 11.

The Breton High School graduation class asked about catering for their graduation banquet, to be held June 29.

Plante organizes sticker club

Dale Plante shows off some of the stickers he will be giving away during the sticker trading night.

Drayton Valley will have its first sticker collectors' club March 18.

"Stickers are not just for kids, there are a lot of guys who collect them," said Dale Plante, organizer.

In what he hopes will become an annual event, the first sticker night will be held at the Elks Lodge and will go from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m., Plante said.

To encourage the kids to come out the admission price is free for 14 and under. The dollar price for everyone else will be donated to the swimming pool fund, he said.

Plante said he held a sticker night in Edmonton and in two hours he had 540 kids come.

As a community minded individual, Plante is also involved with the Pentecostal Church, in charge of the Christian education department.

Criminals publish memoirs

Problem is confronted

By Stan Schellenberger, MP

For months now, officials in the federal Solicitor General's department have been struggling with one of the most delicate problems they have ever confronted: how to prevent criminals from profiting from publications about their crimes.

Last week the MP for Crowfoot presented a Private Member's Bill to the House of Commons. This Bill is proposed to amend the Criminal Code to prevent financial gain from crime. To my and many others' dismay, the Bill was talked out of the House. This means the Bill was defeated

It was disturbing to realize the government did not pass the Bill in this session of Parliament. I hope Mr. Malone will re-introduce his Bill in the new session, or the government will introduce their own Bill to deal with this issue.

In drafting this proposed legislation, special care was taken to ensure that laws of this sort do not inhibit publication and the guarantees of freedom of expression in the Charter of Rights.

If a similar Bill is passed in the new session it will stop no one from writing about their criminal deeds and those activities centering around their crimes.

What it does is tax 100 per cent of the profits from the publication and turn the money over to the Attorney General of the province where the crime was committed, to be used to aid the victims of the crime.

Following writing of the book, Son of Sam, the New York State legislature passed a law to restrict profiting from crime. Known as the Son of Sam Law, the statute requires publishers to report and register their contracts with criminals, which are then reviewed by the New York State Crime Victims' Board to see that they meet several criters.

Here in Canada, Francis Simard wrote a book about the FLQ and the murder of Pierre Laporte, and Clifford Olson had said that he has hired a ghost writer to write a book about his life.

It is time for a law that states while you are free to expres your thoughts, you are not free to profit from the crime. If you go to jail to pay for your crime, you can not come out of jail and turn the debt you have paid into a profit. That is unaccepta [illegible]

Like New York State, Canada too should have compensation for the victims of crime. The first priority is the victim. Assuming he has survived, he should be compensated. In the case of a murder, such moneys would be paid to those people wholly dependent on the victim or to the estate of the victim.

Another alternative would be for the money to go to the victims of crime in general.

Finally, if none of those situations are applicable, the money would go to those organizations whose objective is to deter crime or reform criminals.

The Private Members' Bill not passed was a simple piece of legislation which would have allowed criminals, sentenced to five years or more and now free, to express themselves without profiting by it.

We must have fair laws in society. All Canadians want a system where crime does not pay, thus we must do something about it.

Television shows produced locally

Hickree had just finished taping its musical segment and technicians were setting up for the interview portion.

The light stands had been turned on, the interview set and the cameras were being adjusted to the new shooting set.

The Family Circle will be appearing on the local cable network.

Producer Edwin Erickson was providing sound level checks and a focus object for the cameramen before he assumed his role as interviewer. Director Paul Verburgt's instructions occasionally filtered through the cameramen's headphones as he instructed them from the van housing the recording and switching equipment.

It was the production of the first episode of "Soundtracks" for QCTV's Drayton Valley community cable channel and eight more shows were scheduled to be taped over Saturday and Sunday.

With approximately two hours alloted for the taping of several songs and an interview with the performers, the volunteers worked quickly to set up the equipment and Erickson and the band took their places for the interview.

As producer of the show, Edwin Erickson organized the musicians through his contacts record company, Buck Mountain Records, and came up with the volunteers to man the three cameras. Space for the sessions were donated by the Westwind Motor Inn.

They covered the background of the band and viewers will be presented with a smooth running profile of the group.

But behind the scenes the cameramen were flashing hand signals and responding to Verburgt's instructions as Erickson's wife held up cue cards.

Once the interview was over the group moved off the set and preparations for the next band were made. Family Circle, another Drayton Valley group, began the same process of tuning instruments as Glenn Ellery took on the role of recording engineer.

Microphones were moved to accommodate the musicians and their instruments and the light system and the cameras had to be readjusted for the new group to be taped.

Several versions of each song were required as the taping progressed until the songs were played flawlessly.

During a break to set up the Family Circle, Erickson explained the series will be catering to "a variety musical format."

With his involvement with area musicians through his record label, he said he is optimistic about developing new talent in the region.

The taping of the series was carried out thanks to the help of a volunteer crew. The three cameramen took the workshop put on by QCTV in January, and Ellery donated the sound system which Erickson credited with making a "big difference" in the quality of sound.

He hopes to continue the series once the nine shows are aired. QCTV's Verburgt said there has to be at least two days worth of shooting to warrant bringing out the mobile unit.

His company's involvement centres around providing the equipment and access to the community cable channel. Verburgt will now have to edit the footage into one-hour segments and said they will probably be aired in several weeks on Channel 10.

Daren Tuttle plays guitar with The Family Circle.

Hickree was interviewed by producer Edwin Erickson.

QCTV's rural community submitter Paul Verburgt was the director.

Energy-efficient housing slated for seminar

With energy increasing faster than inflation, energy efficient housing is becoming a concern of residents everywhere.

Fred Lemieux, a local builder and organizer of the energy efficient housing seminar being held Saturday, March 19 in the Pembina Educational Consortium building, says people are unaware of what is available in energy efficient housing.

The reason he is sponsoring the seminar along with the Pembina Educational Consortium, is to create the awareness. "The problem is lack of information so the public can make a choice," he explained.

John Hughes, an Edmonton consultant and designer of passive solar and energy efficient homes, will be the feature speaker at the seminar.

Topics during the seminar include passive solar design, superinsulated—airtight construction. Larsen truss system and air to air heat exchangers.

To construct an energy efficient home would cost above five dollars a square foot more than a conventional house, Lemieux said. "Conservatively that extra cost could be saved within five years depending on the lifestyles of the people."

People would have to be willing to burn wood, he clarified.

Unemployment premiums are deducted

Last year I received unemployment benefits in the amount of $1,000. This year I am informed that I was overpayed in the amount of $300 and am required to return this amount. Since I paid taxes on the $300 last year, may I deduct the $300 on my return for this year?

Yes, you may. The unemployment insurance commission will give you a receipt marked Good for Income Tax Purposes. The amount shown on this receipt may be deducted from income on the line, Other deductions, in the year repaid. The receipt must be filed with your return.

My son, who will be a senior in high school next term, worked during the summer months and earned about $2,500. Since this is over the $2,440 limit for his earnings, will I be able to deduct anything for him on my tax return?

Yes, but you must deduct the excess of his net income over $2,440 off the exemption of $1,220. As long as your child is wholly dependent upon you for support and is either under 21 years of age or a full-time student, you may claim an exemption for him. Remember to deduct such items as tuition fees from his gross income to arrive at the net figure by which the exemption must be reduced.

I have a full-time job, but to earn extra money I have started a small order business part-time in my home. A friend told me I could deduct my taxes and hydro payments as a business expense. Is this true?

Yes. You may deduct most direct expenses of earning taxable income in your own business or for commission sales. If you use one or more rooms of your house exclusively for business purposes, you may deduct that portion of your rent, utilities and other household expenses that the business use bears to the total house use.

Many taxpayers ask if they may claim the premium they paid in 1982 into unemployment

Yes, for 1972 and subsequent years premiums paid into unemployment insurance are deductible for income tax purposes.

Also, taxpayers who receive benefits from unemployment insurance must include these as income since, for 1972 and subsequent years, unemployment insurance benefits are taxable. You will receive a T4U from the UIC showing amount of benefits received and tax withheld.

Last year, a number of taxpayers, when filing their income tax returns, did not claim for overpayments that had been made into the Canada Pension Plan and for unemployment insurance premiums. Taxpayers want to know how to find out if they have paid too much into the plan and for UIC premiums.

Tax Tips

by Steve Serenas

They do this by completing the section of the tax return called Employee Overpayment of Contributions and Premiums. And, if they find they have paid too much, they enter these amounts as credits on the lines provided in the Tax and Credit Summary area on the front of the tax form.

Taxpayers who are blind, or who, during 1982, were confined to bed or a wheelchair want to know if there is any special deduction they may claim.

Yes, there is. A taxpayer who is blind, or who was confined to a bed or a wheelchair for a substantial period of time each day during any 12 month period ending in 1982 may be allowed a special deduction of $2,220.

Some taxpayers who attend school courses at night ask if the fees may be claimed as a tax

Fees for night school courses may be claimed as a tax deduction provided the courses were taken at a recognized school or university, or a school registered by the minister of Manpower and Immigration and the fees were in excess of $25. The students should ask the school or university for receipts that are recognized for tax purposes and attach these to their tax return.

Many taxpayers want to know how to calculate the income of a dependent.

The figure used should be net income before personal exemptions. In most cases this will be a dependent's total income less the three per cent employment expense, Canada Pension Plan contribution, UI premium, registered pension plan contributions and any allowable tuition fees.

Taxpayers claiming dependents are reminded that, for taxation purposes, the dependent's net income must be less than $3,110.

I spent six months of last year in the US working for a US employer. Must I report all my earnings in the US on my Canadian income tax return?

Yes, you must. If you were in the US for less than 183 days and earned less than $5,000 you would get a refund of taxes withheld in the States. However, if the period exceeded 183 days or you earned over $5,000, you must file a US return, paying the calculated tax.

Stony Plain celebrates 75th anniversary

The 12th Annual Parkland Handcraft Show is set to open today in Stony Plain, organizer Marian Majeau said recently.

Between 100 and 150 entrants are expected, bringing a total of 300 to 450 pieces to be judged.

Official opening of the show will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the Stony Plain Community Centre.

Only the winning items in the 80 categories will be shown, along with the major award winners at the opening.

All entries will then be on display in the Multicultural Centre's main gallery for the balance of March until April 5.

Competition was so close last yer the judges were counting stitches in one item to try to pick a winner, Majeau said.

The emphasis is placed on craftsmanship when judging (about 70 per cent) while the balance is based on creativity.

While no age categories exist, entries are marked either child (12 years and under), adult (18 to 59 years) and senior (60 years and over).

The age brackets are used for the 'Best of Show' cash awards.

Child and teen best of show awards are $50, while adult and senior winners net $100.

The Heritage Awards lineup is expanded this year, Majeau explained, with the addition of a special woodwork award.

Heritage awards are given to the outstanding entry in a small number of basic, long-standing craft disciplines.

They include crochet, knitting, pottery, quilting, rug making, spinning, stitchery, tatting lace, weaving and woodwork.

Heritage awards are sponsored by various organizations in the area.

The people's choice award will again be given to the entrant receiving the most votes from the viewing public.

An entry box will enable people to vote, Majeau said.

Special awards will be given to those entering items with a distinct 75th anniversary theme; this being the town's 75th birthday.

One or more such articles may also be purchased by Stony Plain's 75th anniversary committee for display in a public building in town.

Such purchase items will be judged by 75th anniversary committee members, not the regular show judges.

This being the top local arts and crafts show, it only draws the best work, Majeau explained. With only one entry allowed per category, artists cull their own work.

"Participation is the best part of the show. People are usually nervous about seeing their work with that of others.

"But the show really belongs to the crafters."

Guest speaker for the opening is Jane Thomas, executive director of the Alberta Crafts Council.

4-H members prepare for public speaking

By Candace Algeire
Regional 4-H Specialist

4-H members across the province are busy preparing for public speaking. Some 4-Hers are trying another angle to develop communication abilities. They are doing demonstrations.

Whether it be building self confidence when just beginning public speaking or polishing communication skills, demonstrations can be effective and fun. People learn much better if shown by example—the demonstration way!

Demonstrations come in a wide variety of topics—decorating a cake, building a birdhouse or grooming a dog

Many of the steps in preparing and presenting a demonstration are the same as in public speaking. A good attention catching introduction, an interesting body with steps arranged in logical order and a summary which reinforces major points are all basics of both a public speech and a demonstration.

Among the finer points there are some differences between the two. Here are a few tips specifically for the demonstrator.

- Don't forget to introduce all the demonstrators.
- Explain the what, why and how for each step.
- Show the finished product.
- Make sure all equipment is clearly labelled.
- Present the demonstration so that everyone can see and hear what you are doing and

- When someone asks a question, repeat the question before answering.

Every club should have a copy of the book, Getting Your Point Across: Communication Training in 4-H.

In reality most of us do an informal demonstration almost every day.

4-H in the Mall will be held Saturday, March 12 at Edmonton's Southgate Shopping Centre.

Applications for summer programs, summer camps, special events and Universiade participation are available from 4-H leaders.

Applications for the 4-H pheasant project are now available. Contact the Regional 4-H office for details. Application deadline is March 18.

MLA studies effects of sour gas

By Shirley Crippe, MLA

Although the blowout of the Amoco sour gas well near Lodgepole has been controlled, a number of concerns still remain.

As the Member of the Legislative Assembly for Drayton Valley, the area where people were most immediately affected, I felt a particular responsibility in finding out the effects of this gas on human health.

My investigation has revealed that studies on general, low level exposure to hydrogen sulphide are available and that they confirm that the immediate effects of exposure are similar to those experienced by Albertans during the two-month period the well remained uncapped.

All studies find that the most common health complaints are associated with the respiratory system. Reports of nose, throat and lung irritation are detailed, as are cases of coughs and shortness of breath, particularly among people who suffer from asthma.

The studies also point out that in many instances the gas can cause nausea and headaches in certain individuals, resulting in a loss of appetite and difficulty in sleeping.

Finally, every study connected a burning sensation of the eyes with exposure to the gas.

Unfortunately, none of the studies provide any definite conclusions regarding long-term or permanent effects on health.

Thus, there is a real need for further investigations to ascertain the long-term effects of exposure to hydrogen sulphide.

The government of Alberta has pledged substantial support to a high priority research project at the Alberta Environmental Centre in Vegreville, The Inhalation Toxicology Program.

Recognized experts and trained staff have begun laboratory experiments to provide a conclusive study on the health effects of long-term, low concentration exposure to hydrogen sulphide similar to levels experienced in gas well blowouts like that of the Amoco well near Lodgepole.

Consequently, when one combines this initiative with the undertakings of Alberta Environment, Disaster Services, Workers' Health, Safety and Compensation, and Social Services and Community Health, a full effort is being made to understand the effects of hydrogen sulphide gas on human beings.

I attended the cabinet meeting when the ERCB inquiry was discussed to outline health concerns of many of my constituents. There was agreement from cabinet that two medical people would be appointed to the inquiry board.

The pre-inquiry meetings will help to determine the nature of the inquiry and will insure public input into the terms of reference.

As the legislature reconvenes March 10, I will no longer be in my office in Drayton Valley on Mondays. The office will still remain open Mondays and Wednesdays with Nina Hansen in attendance who will assist with inquiries.

I can be reached in my office at the Legislature by calling collect 427-1843 or at my residence at 662-3756. All correspondence should be sent to Room 503, Legislature Building, Edmonton, Alta. T5K 2B6.

Village of Breton PUBLIC NOTICE

There will be no annual meeting of the electors of the Village of Breton in 1983 unless they petition the Council to hold an Annual Meeting.

Section 124 (2) of the Municipal Government Act states a municipality having a population of 1,000 persons or less requires 7% of the population to sign the petition. The Village of Breton would require 40 names. The petition must be submitted to the Village Office by March 11, 1983.

Frank Harrison enjoying retirement

By Edith Doby
542-5451

Irene Block is a patient in the local hospital where her condition is causing grave concern to her family and friends.

Eileen Krauter of Toronto was in town for a month to keep her brother Lyt company while Mildred was in hospital for surgery. Mildred is now convalescent and her sister-in-law has returned to her home.

Frank Harrison tells me that he is enjoying his retirement. A garage fitted out as a workshop occupies much of his time.

Many thanks to the people who phoned me to point out my error in placing Sri Lanka in Africa rather than in the Indian Ocean off the southern tip of India. As everyone but me seems to know, it is the new name for Ceylon.

My apologies to Betty MacKenzie and the Western Review for any embarrassment my mistake may have caused.

4-H practice communications

By Chris Klein

Seven members were present at the Carnwood 4-H Multi Club meeting held Feb. 8 at the Carnwood Hall.

The Carnwood senior council attended the senior council elections in Drayton Valley Jan. 18.

A workshop was held Feb. 11 at Easyford. This consisted of a pot luck dinner and practising communication skills.

The club went flying Feb. 13 from the Drayton Valley airport.

After the meeting was adjourned, members started public speaking. Nicole Bidwell won the junior award, and Gale Fenneman won the senior award.

The white elephant was won by Scott Purdy and Mrs. Purdy.

Brzus rink wins Buck Lake mixed bonspiel

By LeOpel Larsson
268-3175

The Buck Lake Curling Club held its annual mixed bonspiel from Feb. 16 to 20. The Rudy Brzus team emerged as winners of first place. Rudy's helpers were Vera Brzus, Merlyn Becker and Judy Becker.

The second event was won by Bohdan Urchyshyn, Lil Ross, Dale Sweet and Joan Pruden.

Joe Meinczinger, Gladys Meinczinger, Joe Sobon and Gladys Sobon were victorious in the third event.

Dwayne and Tammy Patten are the parents of a baby girl who arrived Feb. 14 in the Drayton Valley Hospital. She weighed seven pounds, 14 ounces and her name is Sheena. Grandparents are Jean Melin and Pat and Geneva Patten.

Stacey Alcock was home from the University of Alberta for Reading Week.

Judy Anderson and Johnny Miller were married Feb. 19 in the Alder Flats Hall. Attendants were Kelly Rainer, Shannon McKay, Heather Siegel, Corby Miller, Richard Miller and Clay Anderson. A family supper was held at the golf course and a dance followed in the Alder Flats Hall. They spent a few days honeymooning in Jasper Park and Banff.

People from Buck Lake helped make up the crowd of 600 which attended a fiddle contest in Rimbey Feb. 19.

Snowmobile races will be held on Buck Lake Saturday, March 12 starting at 11 a.m. About 40 machines are expected to take part. A supper will begin at 6 p.m. in the hall, followed by trophy presentations at 7 p.m., and then a dance.

The third annual talent show, sponsored by the Agricultural Society, will be held Saturday, March 26 at 7 p.m. For particulars phone 388-3812.

Lil Leroux and Madeleine Prefontaine enjoyed 16 days on a holiday to Acapulco.

Mobile home tenant act set

As of Jan. 1 this year, there is an act which governs the relationship between landlords and tenants of a mobile home site. The Mobile Home Sites Tenancies Act refers primarily to the rental of mobile home sites in a mobile home park. A mobile home park is defined as a piece of land with at least three mobile home sites.

This legislation does not refer to renting the mobile home itself.

The Act makes specific reference to security deposits, notice to end the tenancy, rent increases, and the legal remedies available to both if the other breaches the Act or the tenancy agreement.

The tenancy agreement can be verbal or written. Written is the preferred form. It should clearly identify what facilities and services are included in the rent. The renter must get a signed copy of a written tenancy agreement or security after he has signed it and returned it to the landlord. If he doesn't he can withhold the rent until he gets a copy.

Before entering a tenancy agreement, either verbal or written, the landlord must show the tenant a written copy of all park rules in existence at the time. After the tenancy starts these rules can be changed if the changes are reasonable and are intended to benefit the residents' safety, welfare and convenience.

Tenants must be given reasonable written notice of any rule changes and the rules must be applied fairly to all. The changes must be clear in what is being prohibited, instructed or limited.

If any of the above are not done, the changes are not enforceable. There are two exceptions. If the rule concerns the residents' safety or the use of the common property, it can be changed without notice.

The landlord must also inform a tenant, before he enters into the tenancy agreement, of all fees and charges payable over and above the rent.

Rental and other originally disclosed fees cannot be increased unless at least 180 clear days written notice is given to the mobile home site tenant. Clear days means that the day the notice is given and the day it is to come into effect don't count as part of the 180 days. The tenancy agreement can start a longer notice period of rent increase. The tenant accepts the rent increase if he doesn't give proper notice of termination to be effective on or before the date the rent is to be raised.

The notice to terminate by either the landlord or tenant must be in writing and must be served correctly. Service in this Act is by registered mail, by certified mail or in person. Mail should be addressed to the mobile home site for the tenant and to where the rent is paid for the landlord. If the tenant isn't home the landlord can post the notice in conspicuous place on some part of the mobile home site or give it to an adult who apparently lives with the tenant.

Presuming that the rent is paid monthly, if a tenant wants to leave he must give the landlord two complete months notice. However, the earliest a tenant can leave after taking possession of the site is at the end of the fourth tenancy month. The landlord is guaranteed a renter for at least four consecutive months.

The earliest a landlord can give a monthly tenant notice to vacate without cause is for the end of 12 consecutive months. A tenancy month begins on the day when the rent is due unless otherwise agreed.

A yearly tenancy is different. A tenant must serve notice on or before the 60th day before the last day of any tenancy year. The landlord must serve notice on or before the 180th day before the last day of any tenancy year.

A tenancy year is a yearly period that begins the day when the tenant is entitled to possession.

Yellowhead behind Joe

At the first directors' meeting of the Yellowhead Progressive Conservative Association since the January PC convention in Winnipeg, a large turnout from all 16 zones in the Yellowhead packed the Senior Citizens' Hall Feb. 18 in Wildwood.

The directors were unanimous in their support for Joe Clark in the June race for leadership of the Conservative party.

Official sanction was given to the operation of the club to be known as, Friends of Joe Clark.

Local representative Claire Carefoot says this club will give everyone an opportunity to support Joe Clark in the light of his life against the elements of Progressive Conservative Party disunity centred in Toronto.

Pinafore road show a pleasure

Opera, even light opera, is not everyone's favorite form of entertainment, but the 300 people who attended Thursday's performance of Gilbert and Sullivan's H.M.S. Pinafore felt the production worthy of a standing ovation.

Excellent singing performances by principles Susan Skinner and Richard Margison in the roles of Josephine and Ralph as the two young lovers were well supported by the dramatic role of John Ghitan as the admiral, Sir Joseph.

Doug MacNaughton was not singing as well as Skinner and Margison in his role as commander of the H.M.S. Pinafore, but his performance was more than adequate.

Skinner and Margison managed to deal with the high ceiling of the Rec Plex with strong, confident singing, but MacNaughton seemed to have some trouble with the room.

Ghitan's role required somewhat less singing compared to the demands made upon the other principles, but his character required a superior dramatic talent.

Noteworthy among the members of the support cast were Darril Butler as the appropriately nasty, but not really evil, Dick Deadeye. Heather Meyers' portrayal of Little Buttercup deserves mention for her saucy, yet sensitive rendering of the character.

The other members of the support cast and the chorus worked well together and easily handled the choreography.

As a light opera, and one in English, the work is more accessible to a general audience. Numerous similarities occur between Gilbert and Sullivan's 'operettas', but unlike virtually all grand opera the libretto is in English.

There is a significant amount of spoken dialogue, but all elements of opera such as arias, duets and quartets are included in Pinafore.

The plot is similar in that it takes implausible twists to reach the conclusion, but this is nothing new to the operatic form.

There were also a few ad libs which added to the human nature of the show. When Dick Deadeye told the captain he had a warning for him he replied "Oh no, not Lodgepole!"

Dick Deadeye mugged for the children in the front rows and carried out an impromptu "minuet" with a lady from the audience.

Technical aspects of the show were as pleasing as the quality of the singers. The set was as convincing as something which has to be moved every night can be and still give the impression of being the quarter deck of a ship.

The production was brought in by Drayton Valley Presents and was the third of four works scheduled for this season. Mime troupe Theatre Beyond Words will be coming April 19.

Two-hour meeting

Town and county resolve dispute

County of Parkland residents can breathe a little easier about the continued fire protection from the Drayton Valley fire department following Friday's tentative agreement between the county and the town.

After a two-hour meeting representatives of the two councils agreed on a new package which they felt would be satisfactory to their respective councils.

Four members of the county council and three members of the Drayton Valley town council met in the town's council chambers to come up with a new cost-sharing agreement for the department.

Representing the county council were Reeve Les Miller, Councillors Morris McCullagh, Ivan Vowk and George Mann. County administrator Otto Schuster and county Fire Chief Ray Saunders were also in attendance as were town Administrator Manny Deol and town Fire Chief Sheldon Fuson. Members of town council were Mayor Bob Mayhew, Bob Booth and Ken Koskinen.

The men met one month and a day after town council passed a resolution withdrawing fire protection from the county area served by the local fire department. In the resolution council requested a delivery point for the fire truck owned by the county and operated by the town for county fire protection. The date stated was April 30, 1983.

The meeting was closed to the press but opened to questions following the final negotiations.

Members of the two groups were visibly pleased with the results.

Chairman of the meeting Ken Koskinen explained concessions were made on both sides and budget figures were not available subject to final approval
